Navitas renews agreement with the University of Hertfordshire

Global education services provider Navitas Limited (ASX: NVT) has announced that it has renewed its agreement with the University of Hertfordshire for the pathway college, Hertfordshire International College (HIC), for six years.

HIC was opened in 2000 and was Navitas' first college in the United Kingdom. Since opening, HIC has enrolled over 6,000 students across a range of programs including Business and Management, Engineering, Creative Arts, Science and Communications.

Academic and student experience outcomes have been consistently high with many thousands of students continuing on to graduate with University of Hertfordshire qualifications.

"We are always very keen to renew agreements with our partners but, as this was our first UK operation, this relationship has special significance. Over the years we have worked hard, in tandem with the University, to successfully provide students with a high quality experience that suitably prepares them to succeed at the University of Hertfordshire and beyond," said Rod Jones, Navitas' Group CEO.

"I am delighted to be continuing to build on our long-standing relationship with Navitas. The University of Hertfordshire is home to the first Navitas College in the UK and it has become an integral part of our growing international community. We are proud to deliver outstanding student outcomes, sector leading employability and a strong collegiate campus feel. This partnership adds value to the outstanding experience we offer our students and continues to support the University's ambitious long term international vision," said Julie Newlan, PVC International, University of Hertfordshire.
