Sessional Lecturers in Criminology – Expression of Interest
Navitas College of Public Safety

- Convenient location based in Melbourne’s CBD
- Contribute to the growth and direction of NCPS as thought leaders in the industry
- Work within an innovative environment for an ASX 200 listed organisation

An expression of interest for teaching in both Criminology and Policing degrees offered by NCPS in a collegial and student focused environment

Navitas College of Public Safety (NCPS) currently offers both Criminology and Policing degrees for our students. With a high volume of student interest and Term 2 approaching we would like to know more about Criminology/Policing experts interested in driving the development and teaching of units within the degree programs offered.

The person we are seeking will ideally meet the following selection criteria:

- Masters or PhD in criminology, law, or social sciences
- Demonstrated ability to teach undergraduate criminology and policing units face-to-face and online
- Ability to develop curriculum and coordinate units offered in the on campus and online mediums
- Administrative experience linked to teaching and research
- Passion and ability to work collaboratively with a student focused outcome
- Excellent computer literacy including competence in using word processing software and PowerPoint
- Articulate oral and written communication skills with ability to engage students in the learning process

What we can do for you:

- First class modern facilities
- Collegial and collaborative environment with a commitment to education
- Potential mobility or progression within the business
- EAP programs available for employees and their families
Who we are

At NCPS we pride ourselves on producing graduates that make the world a safer place. We do this through providing a relevant, innovative and excellent educational program that empowers students and prepares them for work in the criminal justice system.

The college faculty promotes a collegial environment, hands-on approach and supportive culture, within a diverse student community.

We are a Higher Education Institution and Registered Training Organisation within the Careers & Industry Division of Navitas Limited, an ASX 200 listed company.

Our mission

NCPS is evolving and looking at innovative ways with a forward focused approach on adapting to the ever-changing landscape of education, the marketplace and society. We aim to become a thought leader in our space with the ability to influence stakeholders in the Australian education environment.

We benefit from the support of Navitas, a large diversified global educator who are committed to improving lives through education, passion for student outcome and growth through conviction and rigour.

Teaching and students are at the heart of what drives us. We are proud of our graduates, teachers and support staff and excited about our future, and the future of delivering accessible and effective education.

Our campuses are located in Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane, Adelaide, Online and soon Perth.

Interested candidates will require full working rights in Australia and to undergo a criminal records check and working with children check if employment was to proceed. Navitas promotes equality, flexibility and equal opportunity in the workplace.

If you would like to express your interest, please apply and provide a cover letter & CV, or email your application directly to email below.

For further information please contact Professor Alperhan Babacan on +61 3 8327 2631 or alperhan.babacan@ncps.edu.au